

How to set up a proxy server in Firefox

Unlike other web browsers, Firefox doesn't default to using your system's proxy settings. You'll need to change your proxy from within Firefox:

1. Open the Firefox menu and select Options.
2. Click on the Advanced icon.
3. Select the Network tab.
4. In the Connection Settings, select, Auto-detect proxy configuration for this network. When prompted, enter the proxy address.
